Democratic Ticket.

FOR REPRESENTATIVE,
JESSE S. WILLIAMS.

FOR STATE SENATOR,
JUDGE THOMAS C. CARSON.

ASTRONOMERS say that the sun is gradually losing its heat. That this is a lie there is not a question. Look at your thermometer.

WHILE drunk last week Clint Stiff, of Breckinridge, carved Mr. Wood English, of Hardin county. English's wounds are painful, but not dangerous.

THE "This and That" man of the Courier-Journal says we don't need any standing army. The tariff is big enough to keep out everything foreign.

J. W. MONTGOMERY, of Grayson county, was arrested last week by Deputy U. S. Marshal Clark and lodged in jail at Louisville, charged with "moon shining."

CONGRESSMAN Speers, of Georgia, denies the charge of Mahommedanism, and says he never had such an intention as voting with the Republicans in organizing the House.

A CORRESPONDENT of the HERALD tells us all about Prof. Klein's comet in rhyme. You will find it on the first page of this issue. It is well worth a perusal. Do not fail to read it.

THE Owensboro News says that from the present indications Capt. Poole will represent Ohio, Mullenberg and Butler in the next Senate of Kentucky. The "indications" you speak of are certainly not trustworthy. Judge Carson goes to the next Senate, "indications" to the contrary notwithstanding.

THE Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company have recently purchased the Louisville, Cincinnati & Lexington Railroad—generally called the "Short Line." It is now believed that Huntington will secure the Lexington line and the Cincinatti branch for the Chesapeake & Ohio R. R.

THE Danville Tribune thinks, or seems to think, that Jeff Davis is utterly incapable of uttering a loyal sentiment or conceiving a right thought on any subject, and yet this same ingrate and fiend, Davis, said to a reporter that the assassination of Garfield "makes the whole nation kin, halves all prejudice and hushes partisan thoughts." What are you going to do about it?

TOM MIXTON, a Butler county outlaw, went to a barbecue at Bee Springs, in Edmonson county, Monday week, and aimed to lose the whole affair. He had imbibed quite freely of sixty-year whisky and concluded he was the lowling hyena from Weleles' creek. He attacked a son of Wood Meredith, but Wood and his wife came to the rescue and the trio killed the desperado.

MISSOURI takes the proper view of professional gambling, which is now, according to the law of that State, a felony. Various other measures have been tried and found deficient, but this will be apt to prove satisfactory if enforced. The gambling dens all closed promptly at midnight when the law took effect. Let us have such a law in Kentucky. It makes us mad, though, when speaking of a law of this kind, to think we have a governor.

THE attempt to assassinate Garfield is a hundred fold worse than the assassination of Lincoln. Lincoln was killed at a time when a feeling of bitterness reigned in the bosoms of all men, and Booth thought he was doing his country a service. Guitauze could have had no such thought unless he is a lunatic, which is now very much doubted by many persons. If Booth deserved hanging for killing Lincoln, Guitauze deserves it for attempting to kill Garfield. Nothing short of the most absolute craziness can excuse him.

ROBERT GRAHAM, a young man of Elizabethtown, shot and killed a negro named Morris on the night of the 4th. The negroes were having a festival when a number of boys and young men congregated near and raised a considerable racket. Morris went out to stop the noise and got up a quarrel with Graham, who retreated up the street, Morris following and attempting to cut him with a knife. Graham drew a pistol and fired four shots, every one of which took effect. Graham dodged into a store as Morris was in full thrust and fell dead. Graham is in jail.

If President Garfield dies it is to be regretted that no greater punishment can be inflicted on the assassin than that of death, which is the due of the murderer of the lowest citizen amongst us. Such is the case, and it may be that the evidences of insanity are such that the law will be cheated of its victim. It does look, however, that, in justice to those who have a desire to live, a man who is sane enough to be allowed to run at large and take care of himself should be held responsible for any deed of this character that he may commit. Human life is too dear an object to be laid down at the command of a ruffian who, after the deed, pleads insanity. Our laws should give a specific definition of insanity, and this definition should be that all persons who are not subject to confinement by law shall, for all purposes under the law, be held as of sound mind and amenable to all the penalties of the law. This would very greatly diminish crime, for we have no doubt many murders are committed by men who hope to get clear on this plea. Perhaps, too, it would not be so bad as would appear at first thought if we were to hang a few lunatics. It might have a blighting effect on the growing crop.

THE Henderson Reporter is advertised for sale.

THE Courier-Journal will be out in its new form next Sunday morning.

A LOUIS county man has not fasted fast for thirty days. He is not fasting for fun as he has drooped of the head.

"Is this hot enough for you?" Funeral from the late residence of the deceased. Friends of the family invited to attend.

The Owensboro Messenger has an item—Louisville Post.
You speak as though the Messenger rarely indulges in such things.

If Prof. Klein's comet is the cause, if this hot weather it is our fervent hope that he may never discover another, or rather that there may never be another to discover.

THE Democrats of the district above us will hold a convention at Elizabethtown to-morrow, to nominate a candidate for Appellate Judge, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Judge Coker.

A CINCINNATI astronomer was looking at the comet a few nights since, and declares that he saw it divide into two parts. We have always heard that Cincinnati whiskey had that effect on a man.

CITIZENS of this place who desire to attend the grand Catholic festival at Litchfield, July 29th, will be carried to Beaver Dam by Mr. J. S. Vaught for half-price. Let's all go and have a splendid time.

A FEMALE tramp in male attire has been "doing" Litchfield. She claims that she was attacked and robbed of her own clothing and was forced to wear the breeches. Look out for a thief when you see a tramp.

THE Louisville & Nashville Railroad last week secured control of the Louisville, Cincinnati and Lexington road by private purchase from individual stockholders. The L. & N. now controls almost the entire railway traffic with the South.

THE net earnings of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad Co., for the year ending June 30th, '81, are more than $4,000,000. Next to the Hartford Herald, this railroad company is making more money than any individual or corporation in the State.

"God save the President from death, and the country from Arthur," is the prayer which daily ascends from the hearts of millions of people. The greatest calamity which could befall this country would be the accession to the Presidential chair of Vice-President Arthur.

GUY, BLACKBURN was the first to respond to a sentiment of Christian duty, by ordering a day of public fasting and prayer to be observed Thursday, July 14. All persons who believe in the efficacy of prayer should heed the proclamation for the President and the whole country certainly have need of prayer.

We should not be considered a faithful transcriber of events which directly concern the welfare of the universe if we were to omit a mention of Rev. Maj. Editor Ben Doring, who has again returned from Journalism. We are tired of making these announcements to the world, and we do sincerely hope that the next time he turns up it will be in heaven with the New Jerusalem Chronicle.

A PART of the Republican members of the New York Legislature held a caucus last Friday, and nominated Warner Miller to fill Platt's term, and D. H. Lapham to succeed Conkling. Depew and Platt had withdrawn. The Stalwarts refused to go into the caucus, and on Saturday 31 of them voted for Lord Roscoe still, and thus prevented an election.

It seems to us a plain case that Hon. Jas. H. Rudy, one of the Democratic nominees for Representative of Daviess county, is ineligible by reason of having filled the office of Deputy Sheriff of that county. If his principal, Sheriff Davis, is ineligible, so is Mr. Rudy, and but few could be found to contend that Davis is eligible. Mr. Rudy owes it to his party to decline, and let some one be selected about whose eligibility there can be no question.

It is said that six Senators and fifteen Representatives of the forty-seventh Congress were born in Kentucky. This thing must be stopped. We can afford to raise fine horses and cattle for other portions of the world, but we must keep our great men. (After mature reflection we have come to the conclusion that it is well. If they had staid here and acted the ass as most of them have in Congress, Kentucky would have been a wreck.)

THE Courier-Journal takes the Commercial to task because that paper stated its belief that "certain arrogant partisans" had prompted Garfield to his bloody death. The Courier-Journal should not have made the charges itself if it would not allow the Commercial to do the same. It almost openly accused Conkling of the deed, and did not allow to run at large and take care of himself should be held responsible for any deed of this character that he may commit. Human life is too dear an object to be laid down at the command of a ruffian who, after the deed, pleads insanity. Our laws should give a specific definition of insanity, and this definition should be that all persons who are not subject to confinement by law shall, for all purposes under the law, be held as of sound mind and amenable to all the penalties of the law. This would very greatly diminish crime, for we have no doubt many murders are committed by men who hope to get clear on this plea. Perhaps, too, it would not be so bad as would appear at first thought if we were to hang a few lunatics. It might have a blighting effect on the growing crop.

Six deaths from sunstroke in Louisville last Monday.

MIRY DEMOST, a saloon keeper of Henderson, suicided last week. Failure in business is assigned as the cause.

PROF. SHALER, the distinguished geologist, says that more than half the coal formation of the United States lies within the boundary lines of Kentucky.

No choice has yet been made by the New York Legislature. The vote Monday stood, Lapham, 69, Conkling, 25, Kernan, 18, Miller, 61. The Stalwarts have called for another caucus.

MANY of our exchanges are troubling themselves with the question: What would we do if Garfield and Arthur were both to die. If Garfield dies luck will be against us if Arthur lives after him.

THE latest news from Washington is that the President's condition is still favorable for recovery. It is the opinion of his physicians that he is not yet entirely out of danger, but the chances are in favor of him.

FIFTY MILLION DOLLARS per year is paid to invalids, actual and so-called, who shed their blood in defending this glorious Union. The major portion of the glory consists in the amount of money it costs. The worst of it is the pension roll increases all the time.

THE vote in the primary elections for the purpose of nominating a successor to Judge Coker, gives in the convention which meets in Elizabethtown to-morrow, Gen. Lewis, 62 votes; Judge Ball, 111, 71, and Gen. Russell, 33. Total 185, necessary to a choice, 93 and a fraction.

THE business men of New York have raised $250,000 for Mrs. Garfield in case the President dies. Mrs. Garfield will doubtless refuse to accept the gift, as her soul is too large to think of accepting a sum of money intended by the donors to assuage the grief which is consuming her. Rich men think money is all that any one lives for.

MANY of the papers of the State and country are advocating Lynch law in the case of Guitauze. He ought to die, but the law must take its course. The fault is in the law, that it does not provide the death penalty for would-be assassins of Presidents, and other high officials, and it would be a great wrong to take the life of the poor devil otherwise than according to law.

DR. BLISS, physician to the President, is said to be a quack of the first water. It looked a little that way when he refused to meet Dr. Gross, of Philadelphia, who is the most eminent surgeon of the United States. Bliss is the man, who a few years ago, pretended to have found a cancer specific which he widely advertised. It turned out, as the doctor has, to be a humbug.

THE weather for the past few days has been as hot as any ever before experienced in this country. At Dayton, Ohio, on Sunday, the mercury stood at 102. At Louisville four cases of sunstroke were reported. The thermometer registered 101. The highest point reached at this office was 99 to 98, at which point the mercury stood Saturday, Sunday and Monday.

THE Republican candidate for Representative has withdrawn from the race in Logan county. A colored man asked him if he would vote for a negro if he (the negro) were the nominee of the Republican party. His reply was that he would not, and he is now off the track. Thus it is with all of them. The negro is a brother when casting his own vote, but if he asks for a vote it is quite different. When will the negro learn that his salvation is not in the Republican party?

Books have been opened for subscriptions to the Louisville, Cloverport and Western Railroad. The amount of stock required to be subscribed along the line of the road is $50,000, $15,000 of which is assigned to Cloverport, and $35,000 to Owensboro. A large part of the subscription has been taken in both places, and the books will no doubt be filled soon. The road is to be a narrow gauge and will run from Louisville, by or near Brandenburg, Stephensport, Cloverport, Hawsfield, Lewisport, and terminating at Owensboro.

It is a duty which we turn with alacrity when it comes to making an exposition of thieves, rascals and frauds. The party to whom we intend to dedicate this present effort brotherly love and Christian kindness, is J. Weaver & Co., 116 Southfield street, Pittsburgh, Pa., bogus advertising agents, and dealers in wood type and printer's supplies, and who are a set of the most consummate rascals that ever imposed their schemes upon an unwary publisher. It is not worth the space it would take to describe the transaction, but it was the same record of a fair proposition from them and acceptance of same by us. This cuts our eye-teeth.

JOHN THROCKMORTON died last week in Mississippi. Many of our readers are acquainted with his history, and all of those who are, are also acquainted with that of his "ghost," Ellen Twidwin, who followed him more regularly than his shadow for twenty-three years. In early life the two became acquainted, and an early love sprang up between them, but by his act they were soon estranged, after which she was his constant follower from city to city, and from State to State. At one time he met her in an alley, and drawing a razor attempted to take her life. Throwing back her veil, she exclaimed: "Kill me, John Throckmorton, but kiss me first!" Brave as he was, such coolness unnerved him, and he again became a wanderer, and she again followed him as persistently as ever. Several years ago he had her arrested for lunacy, but she came near establishing a like charge against him. Maj. Henry T. Stanton became acquainted with the circumstances of the case, and wrote a poem on it, the manuscript of which he was offered $1,000 for. It is said that Throckmorton's friends found out that the poem was written, and that the negotiations spoken of were pending, and by some means they prevented its suppression, but exactly what the means were has never transpired. Suffice it to say it was never published until last week. The woman died some years ago in Louisville leaving property worth a considerable sum. We shall publish Maj. Stanton's poem in the HERALD next week.

Everybody Thinks So.

Now that the comet is about to disappear, the interest in it will do likewise, but the honor of the discovery is not yet, in the minds of some people, definitely settled. Those, however, who belong to this class have never had an opportunity of investigating the claims of Mr. Klein, of this place, or if opportunity has offered have not availed themselves of it. That he is the true discoverer there can, as we have said before, be no doubt, and this opinion is gaining ground every day. The St. Louis Republic after copying the claims which have from time to time appeared in the Courier-Journal says: "Since these are facts that can and will be substantiated by persons and papers, Prof. Klein's opinions regarding the identity of this comet are of some weight. He says positively that it is the comet of 1842, and that the comet of 1783, to which was attributed the terrible atmospheric disturbances of that year. It looks as if Prof. Klein had won the distinction of being the original discoverer of a new comet or the reappearance of an old visitor, as may be hereafter demonstrated. The Professor made a number of drawings of the new comet as he viewed it at different times, which will be of interest and value in its history. So far as appears, the other astronomers knew nothing about it until it swept into the vision of the naked eye, after it had been ten or twelve months a nursing of Klein's telescope. 'Honor to whom honor is due' is a good old aphorism, which ought to be observed in celestial as well as terrestrial affairs, and if the Kentuckian's claims are proved up, as he makes them, the present highly brilliant phenomenon of the northern sky is 'Klein's comet.'"

Who Saw it First?

The question of who discovered the present comet has become a most momentous one. Over 500 persons have laid claim to the honor and the Warner prize of $200, and all of them are within comparatively the same time. It is desirable that no injustice be done in this matter, and to this end all parties who saw the comet during the week ending June 25th, or previously, will please forward their claims without delay to Prof. Swift, Director of the Warner Observatory, Rochester, N. Y. It is certain the discovery was made by a private individual, but who that individual is remains to be seen.

The Chief Evil.

Of the many serious evils with which we as a people are forced to contend, one of the most serious is the bringing of the nation, a section, or community by the monopoly system. To monopoly may be added the evils of the system of office seeking recognized in this country, to office seeking add its constant companion, corruption, to corruption add intemperance, which annually carries to the grave or into obscurity thousands of our brightest and best, and to intemperance add the tariff, but "verily I say unto you," the greatest of these is the tariff. At this we have more than the "Hush-saith the Lord" of our own opinion. Some of our extreme anti-monopolist friends are apt to consider our position as not well chosen, but we are here to contend for it. Take for instance a great railroad monopoly, and it does not directly and immediately affect the interests of any save the traveling and shipping public. Is it so with the protective tariff? Is it hurtful to the best interests of one class alone? Indeed, it is not, but it manifests to the utmost limits of our national existence, and the rich and the poor feel alike the iron hand of the oppressor, save that the pressure on the poor man is more intense according to his means and sensibilities, and the only man who does not feel it is the manufacturer. Speak to him about the matter, and he will say that the whole batch of free traders are fools and the whole subject matter of and conversation on free trade is so much nonsense.

At the first glance one is apt to think that a great portion of it is nonsense, as it bears the appearance of being in a great measure co-operative. Even so. Let us see how it co-operates. In the first place the manufacturer will tell you that it protects the people employed in his factory, by enabling him to avoid European competition in the price for his goods, and that he can afford and does pay a higher figure for labor than if his products were unprotected. Very true. But here, with the factory hand, comes the rub. He is protected to a reasonable extent in the matter of wages, but there the protection stops, or rather, to use a very classical expression, goes on "over the left." He must live, and as everything that he consumes in any way is "protected" that it costs him 30 to 40 per cent. more than if unprotected, while his wages are, to make a liberal allowance, increased ten per cent. Does this look like protection?

It takes all that a laboring man can make under the present system to support himself and family, and we will only ask you to subtract the ten per cent. increase in wages from the thirty per cent. increase in the actual cost of living and what do you have? An actual net loss to the laborer of twenty per cent. of his hard earned wages. Is this protection? And it is not here that the load falls heaviest. It is upon the actual consumer of manufactured goods, the farmers of the country. To him the protective tariff has no redeeming features. Nothing that he raises is protected while everything that he uses is protected, and thereby taxed to the utmost. Our forefathers rose up as one man against a system of taxation less monstrous, and we of to-day applaud their action. Why, then, may we not rise up against this evil that is eating like a cancer the substance of the producing-consuming class. We can by voting against the party of high tariff. Of course, we cannot effect much, but we can contribute our mite toward swelling the tide. We can by casting a good local vote in favor of the party of free trade, or tariff for revenue only, give expression to the sentiment which are for the true benefit of the masses. Local Republican politicians vilify extensively the county levy of one or two dollars a year, and cry out that it is oppressive, while they never say a word about the tax imposed by the Republican tariff which in a year will amount to more than twenty times the poll-tax. Are they consistent? You will say that they are not, but will you prove that you think so by casting your vote in favor of the nominees of the Democratic party, which is the only party of free trade and free everything else? We shall see.

Pleasant Point Items.

July 8, 1881.

Editor Herald: The Centertown precinct is blessed with a more than average crop of all kinds.

The oat crop now being harvested is much better than it was last year.

The Democratic nominees may count on getting a full Democratic vote and the usual majority. We are staunch Democrats, and each will do his duty at the election.

We challenge other precincts to show a fuller vote.

Success to our nominees.

DEMOCRAT.

A pupil of the Latin school being confined to his room by sickness, was called upon by a young friend, "What, Charley," said the visitor, "sick, eh?" "Yes," was the answer, "sick sure!"

Kidney Diseases.

Kidney diseases afflict the greater part of the human race, and they are constantly on the increase, but where the virtues of Kidney-Wort have become known, they are held in check and speedily cured. Let those who have had to constantly dose spirits of nitre and such stuff, give this great remedy a trial and be cured. In the liquid form it is most economical; in the pill form it is most convenient.—Philadelphia Press.

Rockport Racket.

While Dr. Jackson was moving his mill from near Stogner's last Saturday to town, the wagon with the boiler on tipped over, killing one of the doctor's best oxen.

A little house dog belonging to J. N. Dural went mad a few nights ago. When Mrs. Dural first discovered the condition of the dog it was prostrated with a fit between two of the smallest children, who were sleeping on a pallet on the floor. Mrs. Dural caught the dog by a hind foot and threw it out at an open window. Fortunately there was no harm done. The dog was killed promptly at daylight next morning.

A fourteen-year-old daughter of Walter Caschier, Mollie, near Nelson Creek station, Muhlenberg county, leaped from an apple tree last Saturday morning and stuck a snag in her foot which gave her lock-jaw. She died Sunday morning and was buried Sunday evening at Nelson Creek church.

Ed Southard's son, James, is sick this week with typhoid fever. Dr. Layton is the attending physician.

Judge Rutledge is building a large establishment in front of his mansion. It is a two-story house—the first story to be used as an ice house; the upper story will be used as a store room.

We, the people of Rockport, are going to do something for our country; we are going to give—free—an old-fashioned Kentucky barbecue Saturday, July 24th. The HERALD corps and Squire John Jones are specially invited, and everybody else who likes fun are requested to be present. A barbecue as such. The candidates are expected to be present and speak on that day.

Rockport Racket.

Business is at present in a flourishing condition in our town. The saw mills are active, and all mechanical operations are fairly prosperous.

Dr. Jackson is about to establish a saw mill here.

Mr. Rees is completing his churn factory and in time will make his invention a paying business.

The Democrats here are united in the determination to win at the polls. Carson and Williams are beyond doubt in the lead in the estimation of the people.

There is a rumor that the post-office department will discontinue the river mail route.

Success to the HERALD and a big hurrah for our candidates.

Rock Port.

July 10, 1881.

Editor Herald: The crops are in a promising condition. Corn, though late, is growing well. Tobacco is being neglected in order to save the oat crop, which is above the average yield.

The weather is distressingly hot, but no bad results as yet have resulted from the great heat.

You may depend upon us giving a solid vote for Carson and Williams. Keep this fact prominently before the voters of this other precinct—Cool Spring must be the banner precinct this year. The HERALD and the Democratic candidates are equally in favor with us.
